Nuts Is Nute, or Thank God for the CTIA(short, stiff bow to Tom Braden). CTIA research director (sic) Bob Smith wrote a rather amateurish piece questioning the authenticity of the coming Report book for Computers, which also printed a translation of L'Aurore's piece. Having seen this, I invited Bob to come up here to go over extensive relevant files I have. Generally, I have nothing to do with anything CTIA. However, here at long last is something that if not a great things, at least is not irrational. So, Smith hasn't responded. Lesar called me for some advice on some Ray developments (legal) & I told him I'd not heard from Bob. He said he'd tell me when He sees me. I said I'd rather expected a high policy decision He just laughed. I guess there is nobody at the CTIA who can stand being right for a change. HW 2/7/73
